

NOT EVEN A SIGN

Sudden Deluging of the Village of Kinsman, O

WITHOUT A NOTE OF WARNING

A Cloudburst Which Swept Away Much Valuable Property—Six Persons Known to Have Perished.

May 26.—A messenger for this city at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening from Kinsman, a small village 18 miles northwest of this city, on the Fymatensing street, in one of the most progressive farming communities in northern Ohio. He brought the news that a waterpout or cloud burst over that section about 8 o'clock Wednesday morning and that the loss of life and damage to crops, dwelling of stock and destruction to buildings is appalling. A number of physicians from this city are now at the place.

Came in an instant. The cloud was first noticed to the southwest of the village. It was seen to move in a northeasterly direction and direct upon it. The flashes of lightning and the peals of thunder were fearful and frequent. Soon the cloud burst in all its fury. The water fell in torrents from 4 o'clock until a few minutes after 5. The small river overflowed its banks and poured its volume of water over a fertile and well farmed country. The farmers on the banks of the river did not see for safety, thinking there was no danger, and all would have been safe had not a large dam located about 3 miles above the village broken and let a solid wall of water pour down the river's bed. No one was warned, and all thought themselves secure. It was upon them in an instant.

Remains swept away. The river was over a mile wide and completely covered the bottoms. J. B. Robbins' house, a small, one-story structure, was located on the bank of the river. He and his family, consisting of his wife and two children, were eating breakfast. It is presumed that they noticed the volume of water approaching and started to flee, but too late, as they were whirled away to death and destruction. E. Stewart and son were at their barn, which was some rods from the house. It was carried away and both were drowned. The house withstood the onslaught and the wife observed the destruction of her loved ones. J. D. Campbell and wife were carried down the river. They lodged on the remnants of a bridge and were rescued.

The bodies of the six known to have perished have been recovered. All were found in a large pile of driftwood which reached nearly across the river. Large numbers of horses and cattle were swept away, and the total loss will reach $50,000. The bodies of the three who were carried down the river are now in the hands of the coroner, and the bodies of the others are in the hands of the coroner, and the bodies of the others are in the hands of the coroner.

OUR FLAG ORDERED DOWN.

Remains of the flag taken to the town.

May 26.—Tuesday three police officers and five men of a brigade of the Montreal garrison arrived at the store of Long & Co., Boston, and demanded that the store and stripes flying outside be taken down. The clerk charged pointed out that French, English and British flags were also flying, as well as the American flag, for decorative purposes only. The men insisted on the removal of the American flag. To avoid trouble the store and stripes were taken down at once. The same lot of soldiers then visited the store of one Hoffman and made a similar demand as to the American flag, which was flying with others. Again, to avoid trouble, the American flag was taken down. The store was then visited and the owners were compelled to take down the American flag. The matter has been reported to the brigade major and an investigation will be made.

On investigation it proved to be Bachman, who, it is supposed, threw himself on the track before the approaching train with suicidal intent. Chicago dispatch life is given as the cause.

Simpson, who, the plaintiffs claim, was one of the several men who seduced them of robbery and made them suffer the ignominy of being searched. The affair took place in the hotel hall at the state fair grounds last September. They were accused of having picked some one's pocket and Simpson, Constable Peterson, of this city, Marshal Stevens and one Grassell assisted in having the women searched. The search revealed nothing and now the women have brought separate suits for damages against the State Agricultural society and the above mentioned persons. The verdict against Simpson went by default.
